INTERNATIONAL QUESTIONS

Will Come Up Before The Hague Tribunal—Government Coal Lands—Daughters of Revolution.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—Questions of international law which will be submitted in the form of recommendations to the next Hague tribunal, were considered here last week by the American Society of International Law holding the first of its annual sessions. This society is only a year old, but its president is Secretary Root, and it numbers on its board of directors several other members of the cabinet. International law up to date is rather like the English constitution, an unwritten mass of precedents. There is no international code in the strict meaning of the term, and one of the objects of the society is to develop interest in the subject and secure the adoption of a well defined international standard. The subject taken up at the initial meeting of the society was the long debated one of property rights on the high seas. Judge Advocate General Davis, Rear Admiral Stockton and a number of other accomplished lawyers took part in the discussion. While no conclusion was reached, the consensus of opinion was that the cause of civilization would not be served to any great extent by an international convention assuring the safety of private property on the high seas in time of war. It was pointed out that one nation could weaken another effectively by such a system of depredations, cutting off her food supplies and crippling her manufacturing interests without necessarily much bloodshed. The association held that this would tend to shorten the duration of a war, and this being the case, it was a good thing to leave this question alone.

There has just been organized in the Geological Survey a new division, the first of whose duties has already commenced, namely, the valuation of government coal lands throughout the west so as to give the price of these lands when they are rented or sold. As the case now stands, coal lands are sold for the nominal price of $1.25 an acre, and the government gets little money benefit out of the sale. A large field force has already been started out, and it is ready that it will be able to cover about 20,000 square miles of territory during the coming season.

The division will send in car load samples of coal from all the government coal deposits, and these will be tested for their gas producing value, their cooking value, their steam making qualities, and all other lines in which coal can be made useful. A good deal of work in fuel investigation has been done by the Survey in the past year, the main fuel testing plant being located at St. Louis. One very valuable discovery has already been made, and that is that some of the government coal that has been thought absolutely valueless for burning will make excellent gas, and being thus transformed and used in a gas engine will produce more power at the same cost out of a ton of coal than will the best coal when burned and used to make steam. This is an immensely valuable discovery, as will be readily appreciated. There are hundreds of thousands of acres of very low grade coal land still belonging to the government. This coal is lignite, softer than the very softest bituminous coal, and but little better than peat. It has never even been paid to mine it. But if it can be used for gas making and the gas used for power as has been demonstrated, then the lignite beds are as valuable as so much good steam coal. This will add millions of dollars to the value of the remaining public coal lands. There have been other interesting developments from these fuel tests, but some of them are too technical to be of general interest, and the above is enough to show that they are giving good value for the money expended on them.

The election of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held last week, and as had been generally expected, Mrs. Donald McLean of New York, the present President General, was retained in her position. This is a matter of much interest to women all over the country, as these ancient "Daughters," despite the fun often made of their parliamentary squabbles and their much ado about nothing, are nevertheless of interest to some people.

Of course, one has to show a Revolutionary ancestry to be eligible for membership, and some who have not succeeded in qualifying through the army branch of the service may be interested to know that they have a better chance now than ever before to examine the naval records of the revolution and possibly find a Revolutionary ancestor who served on the water. It has been a great regret to genealogists for a long time that the records of the navy in the Revolution were so incomplete and scattered. Now, however, they have been collected as far as possible from the original documents and printed by the Library of Congress as a public document. This book is on sale by the Superintendent of Documents at the Government Printing Office, and can be had by anyone interested in (Continued on Eighth Page.)

EXERCISES AT HYNDMAN

Large Audience Hears an Excellent Program.

Hyndman, Pa., April 20, 1907. The commencement exercises of the Hyndman high school were held in Mullin's Hall Friday evening, the 19th inst. at 8:15 o'clock.

This annual affair is looked forward to by "Hyndmanites" as the climax of social events, and this year proved to be no exception, as the large hall was crowded to its utmost capacity and the excellent program was faultlessly rendered. There were but two graduates, Misses Isabel Weller and Elsie Miller, consequently members of the senior and junior high school classes participated in the exercises. Promptly at the appointed time the entertainment began with a stirring military march, "The Man in Uniform," by the Hyndman Orchestra under the direction of J. A. Gaster. The invocation was delivered by Rev. J. F. Kerlin of the Reformed church.

The Salutation by Miss Miller was a very creditable production. Commencing with the first English settlement at Jamestown in 1607 the accomplished young graduate gave a review of the progress made by our nation since that time, contrasting the Jamestown of today with that of 300 years ago. The courage and determination of those early settlers in the face of great obstacles was referred to and in conclusion a description was given of the Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition.

A piano solo, "The Dying Poet" was skillfully played by Roy Altfather, after which a history of the class of 1907 was given by Robert Hardman. The young man's witticisms and jokes were received with loud applause.

Miss Elizabeth Thomas favored the audience with a charming vocal solo, "What the Nightingale Sang," which was liberally applauded.

The Court Scene from the Merchant of Venice was recited by Miss Edna Payne in a manner that showed careful preparation.

A delightful medley overture was rendered by the orchestra, after which the Class Prophecy was read by Miss Katharine Purbaugh, who spoke of a vision in which was depicted the future of the class members. The predictions were very witty and caused much merriment.

A piano duet, "Il Trovatore" (Fantasia Brilliant) was splendidly executed by Miss Nellie Hite and Roy Altfather.

The Valedictory was delivered by Miss Isabel Weller and consisted of comments on the characteristics of noted American authors with special references to Washington Irving and his works. The young lady received close attention and her meritorious effort was enthusiastically applauded.

The address to the class was made by S. A. Van Orner, a former pedagogue, who, by his practical remarks and excellent advice to the pupils and patrons of the schools alike, showed that his interest in the cause of education is not lacking. The speaker deplored the fact that there are so few male graduates from our country schools and feared that the spirit of commercialism so prominent at present is one of the causes that induced our boys to leave the schools before graduating.

The advantages of the educated over the ignorant were shown, the former being better prepared to enjoy their environment and perform life's duties. In conclusion the graduates were advised that completing the high school course is not the end of their education but only a foundation upon which to build further. That the gentleman's remarks were well received was attested by the demonstration of approval at their conclusion.

The diplomas were presented to the graduates by our popular and genial county superintendent, Prof. J. Anson Wright, who congratulated the young ladies upon the successful completion of their course of studies and mentioned a number of vocations now being successfully filled by women. The value of an education, in annual training and domestic economy was dwelt upon, and the prediction made that increased attention paid to the latter branch would result in more happy homes and fewer divorce cases. The speaker concluded his remarks with some wholesome advice to the graduates.

A class song, "Farewell," was given by members of the junior and senior classes, followed by a medley song rendered by pupils of the lower rooms. Rev. C. T. Weede of the M. E. church pronounced the benediction and the commencement exercises of the Hyndman high school for 1907 were a matter of local history.

A prominent feature of this event was the delightful music furnished by the Hyndman Orchestra under the efficient leadership of J. A. Gaster and composed as follows: First violin, D. S. Mullin, second violin, Chas. R. Rhodes; flute, Mrs. F. A. Hitchcock; clarinet, Victor Crabbe; trombone, John K. W. Kramer; first cornet, J. A. Gaster; second cornet, Carrie Noel; piano, Roy Altfather. These musicians gave a splendid concert while the audience was assembling and also at the conclusion of the exercises.

School Notes

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Rev. A. T. G. Apple, Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Assembly Hall.

Commencement will be held in Assembly Hall Friday evening, May 3, at 8 o'clock. It is requested by the graduating class that no bouquets be presented any member of the class while the exercises are in progress.

ENGINES OF WAR

And Peace Conventions—Russian Liberties—The Name "Barnum and Bailey" Still Clings to Show.

New York, April 23.—What does it mean? It seems like only a few weeks since the world was startled with the announcement of the launch of the "Dreadnaught," the most tremendous fighting machine ever invented by mortal man. Previous to the launching no whisper had been heard outside the walls of the navy yard of the building of this ocean giant, until it was seen floating like a feather in old Neptune's loving embrace, armed "Cap-a-pie," like Minerva from the head of Zeus; then it became evident that a mighty revolution in our methods of naval warfare was at hand, such as no generation before us had ever conceived and of whose ultimate mission for victory or defeat no man living could foretell. Lying so peacefully along side the wharf, with those terrible black engines of death bristling with danger on every side, ready to go forth on their fearful mission of destruction whenever men shall give the word, with a steel-rain of her broadsides which, in a single hour could wipe a city like New York from the face of the earth, leaving it a pile of smoking ruins, and being herself entirely immune from danger.

It seemed as if human ingenuity had exhausted itself on the invention of life-destroying engines. My wonder had hardly cooled, when, taking up another paper I read an account of the launch of the "Invincible," another ocean-fighting monster of 20,000 tons and with a speed of 25 knots an hour, making her with her newly-invented turbine engines, the swiftest and most powerful death-dealing craft that ever floated on the stormy sea. The "Invincible" surpasses the "Dreadnaught" in every respect, and the cost cannot be far from 3,000,000 pounds or about $15,000,000.

One of the most unique auctions took place last week that was ever seen in any land; England has commenced selling the old navy's splendid battleships that cost millions and which were knocked down for thousands. The reason for the sacrifice is that new inventions since they were built have left them second-class, and the British navy has no use for second-class fighters; everything must be first-class and fully up-to-date.

As soon as the news of the launch of the "Invincible" got abroad it seemed to create a panic which became epidemic and every civilized country on the globe felt that they must have a modern navy. Italy, the poorest kingdom in Europe, began a great warship that could hold its own with anything afloat; Germany, France and Russia filled their navy yards with thousands of men who worked night and day building ships—preparing for some event in the near future, which looked like a universal war. The most astonishing revelation was the action of Japan. Here was a nation which my early geography designated as semi-civilized, that closed its navy yard against all foreign engineers and, guided solely by the scientific knowledge they had picked up while laboring in a foreign warship, have constructed an ocean fighting-ship that is the equal of the best forms of naval architecture known to men.

And here recurs the question, What does this preparation for a general war mean? From the consecrated heights of Riverside, where rests the remains of our greatest hero, comes the solemn admonition, "Let us have Peace." What cause have we for war? Prosperity has crowned the nation's work in every department of human endeavor and the aggregate result is the enormous amount of nearly three thousand millions of dollars.

While multitudes are perishing of starvation along the great highways of China, a bountiful abundance blesses every American home, for which the Almighty be thanked. The most difficult feature of this new naval revolution to understand is that Great Britain, the nation that produced the first of these big ships, the "Dreadnaught," was the last nation on the globe that needed such a protection, so peaceful was Great Britain at home and abroad that King Edward walked the streets alone with no more danger than a common man, London, swarmed with anarchists ripe for assassination, yet he was immune from deadly peril as if encased in triple steel.

The important question that now confronts Russia is, Are her people prepared to use with safety the freedom's ballot? So far, cowardly assassination, brutal and savage, appears to meet their only conception of free government. The consummation of a model republic within Russian borders is yet remote.

Our musical season is ended and quite a number of our song-birds have taken flight for Europe, there to enjoy the dollars made in this golden land. Shakespeare has pronounced the question, "What's in a name?" If he could have seen Barnum & Bailey's "Greatest Show on Earth" pack up after its last performance, he would not have asked (Continued on eighth page.)

Scalps Coming In

Already the citizens are looking for the scalps of animals with premiums on their heads. William A. Karns of Bedford township killed and brought to Frank Thompson, Justice of the Peace, one full-grown weasel and four young ones; also Sherman Amick of Bedford township brought to the same justice one full-grown weasel and six young ones. It would be hard to tell how many lives of the different kinds of game and poultry were saved by the killing of the above twelve weasels.

There is an act the writer would like to see the national government do and that is put a reasonable premium on rats and English sparrows. Rats destroy millions of dollars' worth of property every year and it is claimed carry diseases of the human family. The sparrow is a pest to citizens of villages, towns and cities. They work on the grain of the farmer, both in shock and when first sown; and as to their good qualities, they appear to have none. F. T.

Oats as Stock Food

Oats are less digestible than corn, chiefly on account of the large percentage of hull which they contain. They have a much higher percentage of protein than corn, especially when considered in relation to digestible matter. They are the most satisfactory single grain for feeding horses. They are not suitable for hogs on account of the large percentage of crude fibre. They may possibly form a part of an economical ration for dairy cows, although in general the demand for them for horse feeding is so great that the price is nearly always out of proportion to the amount of digestible matter contained.—Cultivator.

The Uncommon Excellence of the Jamestown Exposition

No exposition has ever had so large, varied and able exploitation as the Jamestown Exposition. The matter that has been sent out by the Press and Publicity Bureau of this enterprise has not alone served the purpose of exploitation but has been made the subject of editorial notice in some of our best newspapers. A few of these have criticised it adversely, claiming exaggeration, but, regardless of attitude, the fact that this exposition literature has attracted attention of this kind from the best newspapers is something unprecedented. If some of those who claimed exaggeration could visit the site of the Jamestown Exposition at this time, even in its still incomplete condition, they would readily agree that a degree of enthusiasm is permissible in the premises and that so far from being exaggerated in the matter of exploitation, the half has not really been told.

The claim has been made that this will be the greatest exposition yet held; not the greatest industrially, financially, commercially or artistically, but simply as a whole the greatest exposition. Whether it be Paris, Chicago, St. Louis or Buffalo the visitor to Jamestown may have in mind, he will find here features of surpassing and altogether novel interest. He will find novelty, originality and a striking contrast to his exposition experience. He knows that the inspiration of the enterprise is the most romantic and eventful chapter of the nation's history. He will find a location unsurpassed and certainly never equalled in exposition history. He will find an environment of the most historical of any section of the United States, one wherein the patriot may find inspiration and the poet a theme. He will find a score of nearby points of natural beauty and historic interest, sufficient of themselves to make the trip worth while. In the great international naval and military displays he will be offered a splendid pageant never before equalled in this country.

If genuine amusement and health-giving recreation be an item desirable in the sum of his expectations he could find no better spot than the shores and waters of the nation's finest harbor. Last, but not least, he will find a city beautiful, full to overflowing with the wonders of industry, of handicraft, of art, of science; a city of fairy palaces, glittering under the light of a Virginia summer sky; and rearing aloft the symbols and the tokens of the founding of the nation, and over all the sentiment of the patriotism and the brotherhood of a people first in peace, first in war, and first in every good thing under the sun.

DON'T DIE AT 45

Cure the Indigestion Which Is So Liable to Lead to Apoplexy.

People who suffer with headache, giddiness, palpitation, bad taste in the mouth, drowsiness, distress after eating, and any of the other distressing results of indigestion, are in serious danger. Their digestive organs cannot care for the food properly and hence the coats of the blood vessels in the brain get little nourishment, become brittle, and finally yield to the fierce blood pressure and one is then said to have a "stroke," be paralyzed, or die from apoplexy.

In all diseases of digestion and nutrition the prescription called M-I-o-n-a has proven itself of great value. It is relied upon today as a certainty to relieve the worst troubles of indigestion and make a complete cure.

That M-I-o-n-a will cure the worst forms of stomach trouble, cancer excepted, and give quick relief in indigestion is proven by the guarantee F. W. Jordan gives with every 50-cent box to refund the money unless M-I-o-n-a cures. A guarantee like this must inspire confidence. Apr. 26-27

An Interesting Number

The April issue of The Ladies' World is a particularly attractive number, full of interest from the title page, where the beautiful Easter verses, "The Gardener," written by Edith Livingston Smith, are charmingly illustrated by Louis F. Bernker, to the final pages, which are devoted to Talks on Dressmaking and Fashions and their accompanying illustrations. Two brilliant stories, one by Anne Warner, the other by Charles G. D. Roberts, are capably illustrated by George T. Tobin and Frank Verbeek. Under the title, "The War on the Birds," W. G. Fitzgerald presents many interesting facts regarding Fashion's responsibility for the slaughter of the birds; the illustrations are from photographs. The fourth installment of the "Stories From the Operas" series is devoted to Tannhauser. Florence Morse Kingsley's delightful story, "The Princess and the Plowman," nears its conclusion and the interest in her original heroine grows deeper. The small folk will be entertained by the story, "How Brownies Paint the Easter Eggs." Practical talks are given on Spring Millinery and its kindred subject, Becoming Hair-dressing; and the Household and Needlework departments, the "Observances of Society" and "Good Looks" columns are full of interesting and valuable information. (New York: fifty cents a year).

Care of Shoes

An excellent preservative of shoe leather is vaseline. If a small quantity be applied to new shoes it will soften the leather, and if camellia leather, will keep it soft much longer than ordinarily and render it less liable to crack.

If worn shoes are cleaned and blackened, and then rubbed with the vaseline, their appearance and wearing qualities will be much improved. Have a box of oats handy and when the shoes are taken off remove all mud and dirt, lace or button them, fill half full with oats and stuff the tops with crumpled paper.

When necessary to wear the shoes empty them and they will be found to have kept their shape, and will not be drawn if they were in the least damp when taken off.

Useful Hints

Most fashionable women now send their furs to a cold-storage warehouse when it is time to put them out of the way of the destructive moth, for, besides being an absolute preventive of ravages of that pest, the cold-storage treatment retains in perfection the soft gloss which adds so much to the value of furs.

A very pretty and inexpensive cover for a dining-table when not in use is made of a dull shade of green burlap, the four corners being adorned with three large disks, embroidered solid with green couching silk, and just a glimmer of gilt thread to add to the richness.

Glass pitchers with silver lids are to be recommended to all persons who are in the habit of having drinking water in their rooms overnight, for it is well known that standing water absorbs many impurities from the surrounding air.

How to Avoid Appendicitis

Most victims of appendicitis are those who are habitually constipated. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup cures chronic constipation by stimulating the liver and bowels and restores the natural action of the bowels. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or gripe and is mild and pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Will you go and gossip with your housemaid or your stable boy when you may talk with kings and queens, while this eternal court is open to you, with its society wide as the world, multitudinous as its days, the chosen and the mighty of every place and time? Into that you may enter always, in that you may take fellowship and rank according to your wish. From that, once entered into it, you can never be outcast but by your own fault.—John Ruskin.

He insists his new product is genuine rubber, and not an imitation or substitute, and in proof shows samples which have been successfully vulcanized. Cereal rubber is made by a process in which the wheat is ground and subjected to a series of chemical treatments.

Here is a new last which is making friends each day among discriminating men and we predict it will be a prime favorite this season.

The lines are shapely and have the effect of making the feet look small, yet there is lots of room on the inside of the shoe, at the places most needed.

We show this last with harness buckles, a new idea, and the effect is stunningly stylish.

"THE PALACE OF GRAFT"

Recent developments show that the now far-famed graft in connection with the state capital was not confined to the "trimmings" and decorations. It now seems that the same methods, on a lesser scale, perhaps, were practiced in connection with its marble walls—with the building itself.

When the organs of the gang throughout the state could no longer conceal the outrage that was perpetrated upon the people of the state by the "per pound" method of charging for chandeliers and the "per foot" method of getting at the value of furniture, it was with some pride that they made the claim that no trace of graft had been found in the structure itself and that "the gang" had not been implicated.

It is now in evidence that one Mr. Reed went to the proprietor of a marble quarry and on being told that he would charge $5 per cubic foot for small pieces while some exceptionally large one would cost as much as $3, told the marble man that he would have to fix the price at $15 so that there would be something to divide with "the gang." The marble man, it seems, was honest and would not consent—and his product was not used. It is but reasonable to suppose that the agent of the gang found one willing to submit to gang methods. Time will tell.

It has also been brought out that the contractors asked for and received bill heads of the sub-contractors and handed in bills to suit their methods,—on the sub-contractors' stationery,—falsified to amounts that are amazing.

When the commission shall have completed its work there will be something for the criminal courts to do. There may yet be "Prison stripes for grafters."

USE THE RAKE

The season of the year is here for cleaning up gardens and lawns as well as streets and alleys. The borough authorities have for some days been cleaning ditches and streets and it is time for all citizens to look after pavements, lawns and gardens. The health of the individual families and of the town in general depends upon the cleanliness of the streets, alleys, lots, etc.; then, too, the appearance of the streets and the town as a whole demand individual action as well as additional work on the part of the authorities. When the garden rake and the broom and shovel have been thoroughly used a small fire in a safe location is a better means of getting rid of brush, etc., than throwing the same in an obscure corner of the lot or in the alley. The streets of Jerusalem are said to have been kept clean by each citizen sweeping before his own door and the practice there will work well here or the pavements.

WORK AT HARRISBURG

Dunsmore Bill Passed House by Vote of 110 to 6.

Harrisburg, April 24.—The McCord bill, which gives to the people an opportunity to vote on United States Senatorships, was defeated and disposed of beyond hope of resurrection in the Senate. Not a few Senators, who had promised their constituents to support this measure, "flopped" at the last minute and thus put an end to a measure that was very popular earlier in the session. Notwithstanding the action of the Senate, the House, strong in its adherence to the principle that the people should say whom they prefer for United States Senator, passed on second reading the North bill, which points a way to that end. Under its provisions 500 citizens, by petition to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, may have the name of any man placed on the primary ballot as a candidate for United States Senator, and the vote of these Senatorial candidates is to be sent officially to each State Senator and Representative as the expression of preference by the people.

The repealer of the Press Muzzler bill, which was made a law during the session of 1903, was passed finally in the Senate without a dissenting vote. It goes to the House for concurrence in a technical amendment. Governor Stuart has assured the friends of the repealer that he will approve it as soon as it reaches his desk.

A statement was issued by Chairman Sheatz of the House Appropriations Committee showing that the committee has recommended more than the State Board of Charities had urged and over $1,600,000 more than appropriated for charitable purposes by the Legislature of 1905.

The House Committee will make a general report next week and clear up its work. The Senate Committee will also report on its appropriation bills and in about two weeks efforts to reach agreements will be made, as the two bodies do not reach the same conclusion at all in regard to certain institutions.

The House passed finally, by a vote of 110 to 6, the Dunsmore bill; this measure imposes an additional tax of three mills on all corporations now paying five-mill tax. If passed by the Senate the bill will yield an estimated revenue, annually, of $5,250,000.

It developed before the Capitol Investigating Committee that six months before the general contract was awarded to John H. Sanderson, the capitol "trimmer," the designs for furniture were prepared in the office of Architect Joseph M. Huston, actually supervised by Sanderson. These facts in evidence of collusion between Huston and Sanderson were the features of the testimony under oath by Daniel Sulton, a draftsman employed by Huston. Second in importance was the sworn testimony of Alfred Godwin of Philadelphia that a bill for leaded glass had been padded by Payne & Co., the capitol builders, and inscribed upon Godwin's bill heads.

Ex-State Treasurer Harris told how the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, of which he was a member, deliberately ignored the law in the trimming of the state capitol and tried to defend the board as having been fooled by Huston. For more than three hours Harris was on the witness stand. The testimony produced strengthened the case which the state is building against those involved in the capitol scandal. The Investigating Committee is of the opinion that the $2,000,000 contract for metallic furniture was illegally executed and that it can be made the basis for the recovery of money by civil action.

John A. Hershiser

John A. Hershiser died at Mann's Choice on April 12, aged 76 years, six months and 23 days. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Diehl, and the second, who died about eleven years ago, was Miss Mary Van Horn of West Providence. Mr. Hershiser leaves the following children: Solomon and George, of Mann's Choice; Mrs. Lizzie Danaker of Ruffsale, Lewis Hershiser and Mrs. Sadie Stevenson, of Johnstown, Neb.; Mrs. Jennie Baughman of Cincinnati, Mrs. Margaret Welshone of Knoxville, Tenn., and David, James and John, of Cumberland. He also leaves three brothers.

Mrs. Sheridan Harbaugh

Laura K., wife of Sheridan Harbaugh, died at her home in Johnstown on Sunday, April 21, aged 27 years. She was a daughter of Dewalt Kinsey of Helixville, where she was born on April 25, 1880. In 1902 she was married to Sheridan Harbaugh, who, with three children, survives. She also leaves six brothers and sisters: John Kinsey and Mrs. Nathan Crane of Helixville; Thram, Mrs. Anna Line and Mrs. Jane Rose, of Johnstown; and Mrs. William Bailey of Somerset. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon; interment in Sandyvale cemetery.

Mrs. Jacob S. Otto

Mary Elizabeth, wife of Jacob S. Otto, died in Altoona on Wednesday, April 21, aged 55 years, seven months and 12 days. Deceased was born in Woodbury, this county, on September 12, 1851, and was married in 1887. Her childhood was spent in her native town, moving to Altoona after her marriage. In 1902 they removed to New Enterprise, remaining there several years. Her death was caused by inhaling natural gas, which caused an obstruction of the bowels. She leaves her husband, one son, Elliott Garfield, and one brother, Charles Wyon. The body was brought to Osterburg yesterday, where funeral services will be held at the home of Mr. Otto's brother, H. P. Otto, at 10:30 a. m., tomorrow (Saturday).

WHERE HE LIVES

Met a feller t'other mornin'—
Most amusin' sort o' cuss;
Had a cur'ous style about him,
Cert'nly couldn't well be wuss—
I says: "Where you hail f'm, pardner?"

An' he smiled in a knowin' way,
An' replied, in forren lingo:
"Porto Rico, U. S. A."

Seen a feller down on Broadway,
With a shockin' head of hair,
An' a lot o' tropic garments,
An' a most outlandish air.
"Whar's he frum?" a feller shouted;
An' before we'd time to say,
This yere heathen turned an' ans'red:
"Honeyluler, U. S. A."

Met a feller here on Sansome,
With a somber-er o' on;
Had a lot o' shaggy whiskers,
Nearly all his clothes wuz gone.
Stopped an' ast me fur a quater;
Says: "My home is fur away."
"Whur's you frum?" The varmint ans'red:
"Santiago, U. S. A."

Seen a feller down the Southern,
With a heavy iron box,
Overcoat was lined with bearskin,
Wore a dozen pair o' sox.
Sized him up to be a miner,
Judgin' by his awkward way;
Seen him write in big char-acters:
"Circle City, U. S. A."

Seen a saddle-colored heathen,
Wearin' earrings in his nose,
Linen cuffs around his ankles,
Most indecent lack o' clothes.
"Where's this heathen guy here springin' frum?"

I inquired in a lofty way;
An' he had the nerve to ans'er:
"From Manila, U. S. A."

"Hully gee! I never heard of
These yere cannibals before,
Air these heathens also voters?
Will we stan' fur eny more?
An' when nex you ask a feller
Where he's frum, he's bound to say
With a lordly kind o' flourish:
"All creation, U. S. A.""

Arthur Leslie Blackburn

Arthur Leslie Blackburn, son of G. W. Blackburn, Sr., died at the home of his father near New Paris Sunday morning, April 21, of consumption, at the age of 36 years, 10 months and two days. Mr. Blackburn was a close student and graduated at the head of a class of one hundred and ninety-six pupils at Penna. Dental College. He was a clerk in the store of A. H. Whetstone at Everett for a number of years, after which he practiced dentistry at Curwensville until his health failed. He spent some time at Denver, Col., for his health, after which he returned home. He became a member of the U. B. church at New Paris at an early age. While at Everett he withdrew from his home church and joined the Reformed church, and at Curwensville connected himself with the Presbyterian church. His trust in the Lord was faithful to the end, breathing out his last in a calm, composed attitude. His intelligent views on a subject and his pleasant manner in expressing the same, won him many friends. Mr. Blackburn was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge at Everett and of Masonic Lodge at Curwensville. He leaves a father, a step-mother, whom he cherished as his mother; a brother, C. P. Blackburn of Rytot; a half-brother, A. V. Blackburn of Cannonsburg, and two half-sisters, Misses Vinie and Junia at home.

His funeral, which occurred Tuesday morning, was conducted in the U. B. church by the Rev. J. E. Ott, assisted by the Rev. J. Gulden of the M. E. church and the Rev. L. B. Rittenhouse of the Evangelical church. Rev. Ott selected as a basis for his consoling remarks, Luke 23: 50, "He was a good man." Interment was made in the Evangelical cemetery. These gentlemen were pall bearers of their esteemed friend: Jackson Crissman, J. Howard Taylor, S. E. Adams, S. R. Blackburn, J. R. Sleek and W. I. Taylor. These gentlemen, former friends of Mr. Blackburn, attended the funeral: Dr. S. H. Gump, Thomas Eichelberger and A. H. Whetstone and wife, of Everett, Anson Hershberger and R. Peyton Turner, of Saxton. Caj.

Abram M. Bowers

The subject of this article was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bowers, of New Paris. He left home several years ago and located at Yardley, N. J. Upon his home coming, on the night of April 18, he committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart. His remains were brought to the home of his parents Sunday afternoon. The funeral of Mr. Bowers occurred on Monday morning and was conducted in the Evangelical church by Rev. L. B. Rittenhouse, assisted by Rev. J. B. Miller. Rev. Rittenhouse selected for a text Deel. 12: 13-14, "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man. For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil. Without any exception, this was the greatest funeral sermon ever addressed to the people of New Paris, fully portraying the evil of the drink traffic and cigarette smoking. Every young man who heard his earnest pleading for a pure life, ought to take warning and heed his admonitions.

Mr. Bowers was aged 41 years, six months and one day. He was borne to his resting place in the Evangelical cemetery by the following gentlemen: J. Howard Taylor, S. R. Blackburn, J. S. Taylor, H. Davis, J. R. Sleek and W. I. Taylor. He leaves a wife and two children, a father, a mother, and a number of brothers and sisters to mourn his departure. Caj.

IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN

SAXTON COMMENCEMENT

Along the Old Military Road—The Pioneer.

When the great pine forests of northern Wisconsin had fairly begun to attract the attention of the commercial world, the War of the Rebellion had closed, its battles, campaigns, victories and defeats had ceased forever and the mighty armies had melted into the peaceful paths of civil life.

The Indian trail was the principal highway through the unbroken forest and it always followed where the least resistance offered. It seemed to love grass and water, it lingered by the side of the sunlit streams and kept close to the ripple of waves on the beach of woodland lakes. No one man laid out these primitive paths; they are the joint judgment of generations of men; they are the product of centuries of travel by the red men who camped in the trackless wilderness many days, in order that the trail should go right.

Almost every river and canyon of northern Wisconsin has its Indian trail, forgotten it may be by both the white man and the Indian of this generation, trod only by the berry-seeking bear, the timid deer or the lumber wolf.

The white hunters in the employ of the American Fur Company followed the Indian trail; the civil engineer followed the hunter, and the palace car rolls after. Thus the white men followed the Indian trail, and asked the government to construct a military road from Green Bay to Lake Superior. The construction of this government road through the very heart of the pine forest opened up an avenue for the discharged soldiers, the alert homesteader and the ambitious lumberman.

The result of such important work could not be overestimated in its influence upon the iron and copper industry already located along Lake Superior, and the benefits that would follow the completion of such a highway were not confined alone to the business interests of the people, and the moral influence of civilization and commerce. The interests of the general government were involved to a remarkable degree. The protection of the great commonwealth founded on the distant shores of Lake Superior, rich in its vast mineral deposits, and many times richer in the production of its prolific soil. Convinced of its practicability Congress passed an act granting the right of way, through an almost unbroken forest, for a military road running from Green Bay northward to Shawano, then up the Wolf river and on to Lake Superior. The government also gave a land grant of five hundred sections, mostly covered with choice pine and hardwood timber, for the construction of this road through Wisconsin alone.

The letting of the contract and the construction of the road was carried on under a great variety of circumstances. The government planned a highway that would be practicable and passable in the worst weather when most needed. The different contractors planned to secure the greatest possible amount of pine timber with the least possible labor and expense, and the latter seemed to be the more successful. The road was begun in 1864 and finished in 1866. At its completion the government promptly and wisely turned it over to the state, and the state to the different counties through which it passed. Of the 500,000 acres of choice timber secured by the contractors the first 10,000 acres of white pine sold brought $1 per acre.

For several years before the construction of this military road the mail was carried by men on foot in summer, but generally by dog teams during the winter. Only men accustomed to the wilderness and familiar with wild frontier life were employed in this service. They seemed to be equal to any emergency, and when it became necessary, on account of the deep snows, to abandon the dog team, they would put on the snow shoes, strap the mail sack on their backs, and make thirty to forty miles a day on foot. Darkness, storm and hunger had little terror for them. They were brave young men whose love of adventure principally led them away from the haunts of civilization, and whose wild, untamed nature found keen zest and enjoyment in the dangers and excitements of the daring frontier life.

Thus month after month and year after year these pioneers of the wilderness trod their lonely beat; but the mail carriers faded from the trail and passed into history. The trail became grass-grown and the abandoned stations stood like ghosts of silent cities.

The fur trader in the employ of the American Fur Company was the pioneer of the new north, as he penetrated the great pine forest very much in advance of the lumber man, who could see but little wealth in giant pines and still less in the hardwood forests. The fur industry was established in northern Wisconsin over one hundred years ago, and a faint fragment of the American Fur Company fort and storehouse is still visible at Crandon.

At this point is where the Indians have gathered for the past one hundred years to harvest their wild rice in the fall and manufacture maple syrup in the spring. This rice and sugar was nicely packed in sacks made of birch bark that would hold about twenty-four pounds each. These Indians, or their descendants, gathered at the old fort last September where three hundred of them harvested over two thousand bushels of wild rice and stored it away in birch bark sacks for the winter. Their former method was to bury their rice and sugar in the ground until wanted; these sacks were protected by three thicknesses of different kinds of bark. In this way they would keep the rice in good condition for an entire year.

The commencement exercises of the graduating class of the Saxton High School for 1907 took place in the Opera House last Thursday night. The attendance, we are sorry to state, was the smallest that has been at any commencement here in the past ten years; but this in nowise detracts from the class any honor or merit.

The stage was tastefully decorated with class pennants in blue and white, the class colors, and across the front of the stage was the class motto, "Honor Lies in Honest Toil," in white letters on a background of blue. Palms added to the stage setting and white roses, the class flower, were among the decorations.

The graduates were Misses Mary Catharine Christopher, Roxie Maud Fink, Edna Howell Fulton, Frances Caroline Salkin and Mr. Paul Lloyd Piper. The gowns of the lady graduates can best be described as "dreams in white."

The exercises opened with an invocation by Rev. C. F. Althouse, followed by a vocal solo, "Sing Me to Sleep," very touchingly rendered by Miss Ada Huff. The Lutheran Glee Club sang a selection, and the main feature of the evening was announced. It was a lecture, "Life and Opportunity," by Prof. George P. Bible of Philadelphia. Mr. Bible impressed his audience with the earnestness of his message, which was that everyone should strive to grasp his or her opportunity in life. Mr. Bible ranks with the foremost lecturers on the American platform and gives his people something to think about.

Miss Effie Lloyd sang "Marguerite" in her usual sweet and well-rounded style, after which Prof. Kramer presented the diplomas to the class. A song by the class and other members of the schools and the benediction by Rev. Althouse closed the program.

The class deserves and has the congratulations of their friends in their graduation. All the good things in life it is hoped will be theirs. In the language of one of the speakers of the evening, "may they not be satisfied with what they already have accomplished, but may they continue on and up in the perfection of intellectual attainment."—Saxton Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Stayer Surprised.
Everett, Pa., R. F. D. No. 3, April 23, 1907.

On Saturday last the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stayer gave them a surprise. Mr. Stayer has been ill ever since last fall. First he had fever, and before he was taken sick with lumbago, which has kept him in bed nearly all winter. He is now able to walk a very little by the aid of crutches.

It was a very pleasant surprise, for the friends brought many useful things. Quite a number brought money. The people giving so freely shows the respect in which Mr. and Mrs. Stayer are held by their friends. The good mothers of the neighborhood didn't forget their well-filled baskets. A sumptuous dinner was served, which was enjoyed by all present. There were 56 in attendance. A very happy day was spent, and in the evening all departed for home expressing their hope that Mr. Stayer would soon be strong again.

FUN FOR THE BOYS

Are You One of the Sons of Daniel Boone?

The "Sons of Daniel Boone" is the name of a big, outdoor boys' society, founded and conducted by Dan Beard, who is an authority on good things for healthy boys. There already are local clubs of this order, or "Boys," as they are called, all over the country.

Any boy can organize a Fort. The officers of each Fort are: Daniel Boone (President), Dave Crockett (Secretary), Kit Carson (Treasurer), Audubon (Librarian), Simon Kenton (Keeper of the Tally Gun) and Johnny Appleseed (Forester). Each individual member is called a Scout. Get together all the boys whom you know who are fond of open-air sports and would like to learn the secrets of woodcraft and the vigorous games of the old pioneers and Indian fighters. Elect your officers, send the name and address of each officer and Scout to the Woman's Home Companion, to be enrolled in the Great Boone Book, and you will receive a constitution and official charter with the seal of the Mystic Camp Fire, and every Scout will receive an S. D. B. button.

There will be all sorts of novel sports provided for the Sons of Daniel Boone, and the Founder, Dan Beard, will always be ready to give the members of the order his personal advice and counsel—Woman's Home Companion for May.

The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package. For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison-marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Refuse to accept any other. Sold by all dealers.

Do You Remember

The first time you wore trousers?
 The first time you tried to smoke?
 The first girl you were in love with?

The first time you kissed her?
 The first pair of long pants you wore?

The first dress suit you had on?
 The first stiff hat you donned?
 The first time you proposed to a girl?

And the last time your daddy tanned your auld?
 If you don't you never were a real boy.

You were brought up in a hot-house.

And you have nothing but water in your veins.—Pacific Monthly

Couldn't Lift Ten Pounds.

Doan's Kidney Pills Brought Strength and Health to the Sufferer, Making Him Feel Twenty-Five Years Younger.

Sick kidneys cause a weak, lame or aching back, and a weak back makes a weak man. Can't be well and strong until the kidneys are cured. Treat them with Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's the testimony of one man cured.

J. B. CORTON.

I do not believe I could have raised ten pounds of weight from the ground, the pain was so severe. This was my condition when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly relieved me and now I am never troubled as I was. My back is strong and I can walk or ride a long distance and feel just as strong as I did twenty-five years ago. I think so much of Doan's Kidney Pills that I have given a supply of the remedy to some of my neighbors and they have also found good results. If you can sift anything from this rambling note that will be of any service to you, or to any one suffering from kidney trouble, you are at liberty to do so.

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Corton will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address: Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

THE TWIN CITIES,

Minneapolis and St. Paul; Their Rapid Growth.

THE GREAT GORGE.

A Wonderful Natural Phenomenon—
The Work of the Elements—
The Voyageurs.

Minneapolis, Minn.

Dear Sir:—These beautiful, prosperous and progressive cities, situated upon the banks of the Mississippi river, although at their beginning some twelve miles apart, are now generally spoken of as "The Twin Cities"—perhaps so called because of their proximity or that they came into existence at nearly the same time or, rather, that they are indissolubly joined together, like the Siamese twins, by the ligature of the great Mississippi Gorge.

However, whatever may have been the true ground of this designation, I venture the opinion that in the near future these cities will be consolidated and will stand forth as the largest and most magnificent city in the northwest. In a former letter I mentioned the advantages and influences which co-operated in their upbuilding and, therefore, it is unnecessary to repeat them.

These twin cities are about equally benefited by the following named causes and improvements, to wit:

The great trunk lines of railways which pass through them: the Great Northern, four divisions; the Northern Pacific, two divisions; the North Western, three divisions; the Wisconsin Central; the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, three divisions; the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; the Soo Line, three divisions; the Minneapolis and St. Louis, three divisions, and the Chicago Great Western. Over 150 trains arrive and depart daily in each city. The Twin Cities are traversed by the electric railway with its numerous branches. The magnificent roads and railways cross the river at several points, over beautiful and substantial bridges.

Both cities have gas works, electric light plants and water works and they owe as much to the character of their founders as to all other promotive causes. They were sterling young men, mostly from the eastern states, followed by a class of sturdy and intelligent emigrants from the north of Europe. These composite people have made these cities marvels of success and prosperity in every way. Their growth is truly wonderful.

A little over a half century ago, the ground on which St. Anthony, St. Paul and Minneapolis now stand was a mere waste heather; today they have an aggregate population of nearly a half million. When the situation and condition of the region at that time is considered, their rapid and solid growth is almost incredible.

The entire region was inhabited by a motley group of Sioux, Winnebago and other Indian tribes, with a chaotic mixture of French-Canadian voyageurs and their half-breed descendants. No land was open to settlement by the whites on the east side of the river until 1838 and on the west side until 1848, consequently all settlers before these periods were only squatters. (See note.)

A writer has said that cities have personalities; they have souls and temperaments. We love to be in them and breathe their atmosphere, and their rich and varied and individual life; and they give themselves to us if we remain in them and submit to their charms.

I think this is pre-eminently so in regard to these youthful cities. Their citizens have exhibited great love for the esthetic and the beautiful, both in nature and in art. Their lives have not been devoted, exclusively, to the acquisition of sordid wealth, but have been freely and largely given to the cultivation of the arts and sciences, education and religion, in the uplifting of humanity and in the advancement of the kingdom of our blessed Lord.

As a manifestation of this liberal and beneficent spirit, these generous people, many times in every year, have opened their warm hearts and hospitable homes to the strangers who visit their cities in attending the numerous conventions, assemblies and societies which meet there. I have been informed that the cities have special committees whose duties are to ascertain when conventions, etc., are to be held and to extend invitations to them to meet in one or the other of these cities. Considering the extraordinary labor in entertaining so many people, their self denial and sacrifices are wonderful and exceptional. In 1906 these cities entertained upwards of 100,000 people during the meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The Great Gorge

This deep and wide gorge, through which the Mississippi river winds its serpentine course, is one of the most wonderful natural phenomena in Minnesota. As I have already, in a former letter, described the causes which produced it, I will now only refer to the mighty and uncensured forces of nature as illustrative of its origin.

Many years ago the State Geologist of Alabama stated in his report that "there never was a rock which had not, at some time, been soil, nor any soil which had not, at some time, been rock." Meaning, thereby, that the surface strata of the earth have been the plaything of the elements.

As I beheld this immense fissure I realized, as never before, the gigantic and dynamic power of air, water and ice in rending asunder mountain rocks, grinding them into gravel and soil and depositing the debris to the Gulf of Mexico.

The gorge begins below the falls in Minneapolis and with a very tortuous course through its whole extent makes a very wide bend to the southwest, hugging close to Fort Snelling,

EVERY RHEUMATIC INVITED TODAY

TO TEST URIC-O FREE!

75-Cent Bottle Given Free To All Who Apply

If there are still any sufferers from rheumatism in this county or wherever this paper reaches, that have not yet tried the wonderful Rheumatic Remedy Uric-O, we want them to try it now at our expense. We firmly believe that there is not a case of Rheumatism in the world that will not yield to the wonderful effects of Uric-O, and we want to prove it to every doubter beyond all possibility. The best way to do this is to give a large trial bottle of this remedy outright to every sufferer and let him test and try it to his own satisfaction. If you or any of your family suffer from Rheumatism, no matter what form, just cut this notice out of the paper and send it together with your name and address, also the name of your druggist, to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y., and they will send you by return mail a liberal trial package free of all expense. There is no reservation to this offer. You take the remedy home and use it according to directions until thoroughly satisfied of its merit.

We could not afford to do this if we did not know that after you are freed from this dreaded disease that you will recommend it to all your friends who have rheumatism. We know from experience that personal recommendation from one person to another is the most valuable advertising, and that is the way we intend to acquaint the world with Uric-O. Don't put off writing because this offer will soon expire, and then it will be too late. Do it today and start yourself upon the highway to perfect health and happiness. Send for Uric-O no matter where you live. It is sold by Druggists all over this country, and we want you to have a bottle free. Uric-O is sold and personally recommended in Bedford by F. W. Jordan.

and curves southeast to St. Paul, encircling the city on the south and west. As the gorge has no gently sloping banks covered with wild grasses, flowers, shrubbery and trees, it cannot be said the scenery is beautiful or lovely.

The high, perpendicular walls of natural masonry are rather suggestive of an imprisoned river making an escape as "it runneth very swiftly." However, while standing on the bluffs, gazing down into the depths of this rugged and stupendous cleft, I was overcome with silent amazement and with feelings of great awe, at the immense, wild, weird, grand and sublime work of nature and I recognized in it the omnipotent hand of the Creator of the universe, by whom "all things were made."

In order to grasp the size of the gorge, let the reader invert it and it would stand on the plain, a mountain over 12 miles in length, varying in height from 100 to 300 feet and in width from 1,200 feet to two miles. As there is a great discrepancy in the statements in regard to the width of the river and the gorge and the height of the bluffs on each side, Warren Upham, secretary of the State Historical Society, kindly furnished me with the following statement:

Minneapolis is 800 to 802 feet above the sea; one mile down stream below the falls, 720; at Fort Snelling, low to high water, 683-710; and at St. Paul, 633-700. The plateau occupied by old Fort Snelling is 790 feet above the sea and 100 feet above the river. The city of Minneapolis is mostly 225 to 250 feet above the sea. From Fort Snelling to Wahash street and the old capital in St. Paul, the elevation is 90 to 300 feet above the sea, that is, 100 to 110 or 115 feet above the river; but the higher parts of St. Paul are 200 to 225 feet above the river.

On the west (or, more properly, the south) side of the river between Mendota, opposite to Fort Snelling, and that part of St. Paul called West St. Paul, the river bluffs vary from 100 to 275 feet in height above the river, being thus about 800 to 975 feet above the sea. From Minneapolis to Fort Snelling the width of the river varies from 1,200 to 500 feet and thence through St. Paul its width is mostly 800 to 1,200 feet. The width of the immediate valley enclosed by the bluffs, varies from one-half mile to two miles through St. Paul, but is only one-eighth or one-third of a mile between Fort Snelling and the falls.

A trunk railroad passes through this valley and the steamboats land there, in St. Paul.

(Note)—These voyageurs were generally half-breeds, with a Canadian father and an Indian squaw-mother; many of them were descendants of noble families. They nearly always bore the impress of the mother, having high cheek-bones and coarse hair; they were much more reckless than their father. The progeny, not being cared for, they became breeders of strife and contention among the tribes.

Odd Occurrence in the morning Field
On the afternoon of Feb. 8, 1794, the bounds of his grace the Duke of Beaufort were in full cry. The run had been a long one, and they knew that the fox was almost spent. Suddenly the scent turned abruptly from the open, leading straight into the garden of a cottage in the little village of Castle Coombe. Those who were following wondered what had happened and were more astonished still to see the entire pack, without checking for an instant, dash through the open door into the little room. A shrill scream was heard, and when the whipper in threw himself from his horse and gained the threshold he saw a sight which probably no fox hunter has ever met before of since. A white faced woman stood clasping a child in her arms, and right there in the cradle, from which the infant had just been snatched, eighteen couple of fierce hounds were struggling to devour their fox.

The Auto Habit.

Some deliver has found in the Bible what he believes to be a hint of automobiles. It is contained in the story of the vision of Nahum, the Elkoshite, concerning the burden of Nineveh. In the account given by this seer of the military array of the Medes and Babylonians against Nineveh occurs this verse: "The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against the other in the broad way, they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightning." If that doesn't describe a street full of motor cars what does? Then, again, a variant of the word "jostle," which the original Hebrew will, it is said, bear even better, is "pass swiftly, without particular purpose, to and fro." Isn't that the automobile habit?

Smoking a Pipe.

The Canadian Cigar and Tobacco Journal gives some hints to those who smoke pipes. Everybody thinks he knows how to smoke a pipe, but to do it perfectly is not easy. "Time is a keynote of successful pipe smoking," says the Journal, "and another is gentleness. Take it easy. Don't crowd the pipe to the top of the bowl. Never get a pipe hot. Keep cool, and keep your pipe cool. You can relight a pipe, and if you are an old smoker you will be all the better for it. When you have finished do not refill a heated pipe."

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or over-busy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some alarming disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, by reason of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "run-down," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

Sage Tea For the Hair

Sage tea is a good hair grower and one that will darken the hair slightly. Make a strong brew, using the pressed dried leaves, strain carefully and to each pint of the liquid add a tablespoonful of alcohol. All hair tonics should be rubbed into the scalp instead of being distributed over the hair strands. The friction itself will have a good effect on the circulation of the blood and the reviving of the glands.

A POOR ORGAN

Dam(s) the bile. That's what your liver does if it's torpid. Then the bile overflows into the blood—poisons your system, causing sick-headache, biliousness, sallow skin, coated tongue, sick stomach, dizziness, fainting spells, etc. Ramon's treatment of Liver Pills and Tonic Pellets strengthens the liver and makes it do its own work. Prevents and cures these troubles. It aids—doesn't force. Entire treatment 25c—J. R. Irvine & Co.

Tea Gems

Sift three cups of flour with five level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half level teaspoonful of salt. Beat three eggs, add a rounding tablespoon each of butter and sugar, and the flour alternately with one cup of milk. Bake in buttered gem pans and serve warm, or bake in a sheet and cut in squares with a hot knife.

Everyone knows that Spring is the season of the year when the system needs cleansing. Dade's Little Liver Pills are highly recommended. Try them. Sold by Irvine's Drug Store.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

RHEUMATISM

LAWRENCE TUSCANY.

Old Mr. Rheumatism hangs on tight and bice and pinches when he takes hold. It's quite a job to shake him off. It's hard to believe that all the pain and trouble he causes comes from such a little thing. Just a tiny bit of acid in the blood the kidneys haven't taken care of. But the kidneys aren't to blame. I used to think they were. Now I know better. It's that overworked and over crowded stomach giving the kidneys part of its work and the kidneys can't do it. I found this out with Cooper's New Discovery. It puts the stomach in shape, that's all it does, and yet I have seen thousands of people get rid of rheumatism by taking it. That is why I am positive that rheumatism is caused by stomach trouble. Here is a sample of letters I get every day on the subject.

"For a long time I have been a victim of sciatica and inflammatory rheumatism, and my suffering has been too great to describe. For weeks I lay helpless with every joint in my body so tender and sore that I could not bear to move. The slightest touch would cause me the greatest agony. Several doctors treated me but they failed entirely. I tried many remedies but nothing seemed to reach my case, so I continued to lay helpless. My kidneys and stomach were affected also. I could eat but little, digest less and gradually my strength left. I lost flesh rapidly." "I began the use of the famous Cooper medicines of which I heard so much. To my surprise and delight I improved immediately, and after using several bottles I felt like another person. My strength and appetite returned. The pain and soreness left me and now I feel better than I have for months." Lawrence Tuscany, 1122 Aldrich Ave., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

A New Way to Soften Doughnuts
Doughnuts are very apt to become hard a few days after cooking. If they are put in a dish and placed in the oven from five to seven minutes one will find them as delicious as when first cooked. Do not moisten them for then they will become soggy.

Rest is the great restorer. We tire our muscles by exercise and then rest to restore them; yet a great many of us do not stop to think how little rest we give to our stomachs. As a usual thing no part of our bodies is so generally overworked as our digestive organs. A tired and overworked stomach will give signs of distress to which we pay no heed until at last Dyspepsia takes hold. Indigestion is just a warning, and if we heed the warning we can easily avoid further consequences. KODOL is a most thorough stomach relief. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach the needed rest and greatly assists in restoring it to its normal activity and usefulness. KODOL is sold on a guarantee relief plan. It is sold here by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Friends of Our Friends

Nothing astonishes us, as a rule, more than the friends of our friends, says the Ladies' Field. We invariably look upon them with suspicion, and wonder, especially when we have heard a great deal about them, in what their attraction can possibly consist.

Use Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. Children like its pleasant taste, and mothers give it hearty endorsement. Contains no opiates, but drives out the cold through the bowels. Made in strict conformity to Pure Food and Drug Law. Recommended and sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Among the Noblest

"Among the noblest in the land, (Though he may count himself the least) That man I honor and revere, Who, without favor, without fear, In the great city dares to stand The friend of every friendless beast And tames with an unshrinking hand The brutes that wear our form and face, The were-wolves of the human race." —Longfellow.

Be Joyful at Meals

Bad cases of indigestion will be cured if the hour spent at the dinner table is made one free from all cares, either domestic or business. Never scold or make a child unhappy during a meal.

In using a cough syrup, why not get the best? one that comes highly recommended is Bee's Laxative Cough Syrup, contains Honey and Tar and is superior to other cough syrups in many ways. Children always like it because it contains no opiates, is a laxative and is guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money refunded. Try it. Sold at Irvine's Drug Store.

Soldiers and Rain.
The rain fell in torrents on the soldiers tramping sturdily down the muddy street.

"Why don't they put up their umbrellas?" said a spectator.

With a sneer an elderly man replied: "Don't you know, sir, that soldiers never carry umbrellas? History records just one instance of their having done so. It was in an engagement of the civil war, and a group of officers were holding up umbrellas to shield themselves from a thunderstorm when General Grant passed. The general frowned at the sight and sent an aid to the officers with this historic message: 'I do not approve of the use of umbrellas in war and will not allow any of my soldiers to make themselves ridiculous in the eyes of the enemy.'"

"Since that time," ended the old man, "no soldier has ever dared to protect his uniform with the effeminate umbrella."

Polite Star Singers.

Prima donnas in the same city having the habits of polite society are particular about making formal visits to each other.

It happened in Detroit that Patti and Nicolini, her husband, and Albani and her spouse, Ernest Gye, were staying at the same hotel. Patti and Nicolini had gone out for a drive, and Albani, seeing them pass her window, called to her husband: "Ernest, they have gone out. We had better leave cards for them at once."

On returning Patti received the cards and later, when Albani and Gye had gone to rehearsal, said to Nicolini: "Ernest" (his name was Ernest), "they have gone to the theater. This is a good time to return their visit."

Saw Her Chance.

Wife—Mrs. Flareup threw a satirist at her husband last night because he accidentally sat down on her new bonnet. Now, I couldn't do a thing like that. Husband—You couldn't? Wife—Of course not. I haven't any new bonnet.

Success.

The Youth—Yes, I'm in business for myself, but I don't seem to be able to meet with any success. The Sage—No body ever meets with success, young man. He must overtake it.

TREAT THE SKIN

THROUGH THE SKIN

"Blood Disease" Idea is Swept Away by the Latest Discoveries.

Recent discoveries show that "skin" diseases and "blood" diseases are not the same. The doctor treating smallpox, scarlet fever and measles found that the skin cleared after the disease departed. For in these cases the skin bore only the SYMPTOMS of the disease.

Real SKIN diseases, such as eczema, are diseases of the skin itself. Recent development of the germ theory gave the PROOF that real skin diseases are due to the destructive effects of a germ which lives on the weaker parts of the skin. Skin specialists therefore began a search for something that would destroy this germ, and Dr. DeCafer D. Dennis found that oil of wintergreen, properly mixed with soothing ingredients, made a wash that was SURE in its results. This wash was called D. D. D. Prescription. So widely known became this prescription that a company undertook to compound it, and it is now on the market as "D. D. D. Prescription."

D. D. D. is so effective that many physicians prescribe it who avoid all proprietary medicines. Many give it to their patients even though it means loss of fees to themselves, for the cure is quick and requires only care by the patient alone.

If you wash with the mild D. D. D. soap and then apply D. D. D. Prescription, you will feel at ONCE that wonderful relief from itch. The druggist who keeps D. D. D. Prescription can give you D. D. D. Soap.

"For eighteen months our little girl suffered with eczema, and the D. D. D. Prescription cured her sound and well WITHOUT LEAVING A SCAR," writes Claude Pesmire, of Coleridge, N. C. "The disease covered her face, head, arms, breast and from her knees to the ends of her toes. I tried many home remedies and two physicians and they all failed and she just got worse."

"D. D. D. is such a great remedy for cuts and many other things. Every person ought to have a bottle. If you are suffering from eczema, psoriasis, salt rheum, ringworm, dandruff or any rash, try a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription and you will find INSTANT RELIEF with the FIRST DROPS. F. W. Jordan, Bedford, Pa.

Be One

There is true wisdom in the recipe for having good neighbors—"Be one!" When we complain of any fault in those round us, blaming them continually for being cross, indifferent, selfish, rude, unfair or bad tempered, it is always well to see to it that our own conduct shall be invariably cheerful, sympathetic, unselfish, courteous, fair, good-tempered. Otherwise—strange as it may seem—they may be justified in complaining of us, too!—Great Thoughts.

WASHINGTON LETTER

making a search of the Revolutionary naval records.

Considerable worry is being indulged in by the officials of the Navy Department, and more by the officers who will be on duty at Jamestown, by the report that Haiti may send a vice admiral there to represent her. The whole proceeding savors largely of farce comedy, as do most things connected with Haiti. The little island has no navy at all, but a plethora of admirals and generals and high officers of all sorts. She is looking around now for a chance to borrow a warship and send it to represent her at the Jamestown Exposition. If she succeeds in doing this, it will mean that her vice admiral will outrank anything in the way of officers that America, or in fact any other nation will have on duty there. This would put the Haitian officer ahead even of the American naval commander in social precedence, and would create no end of trouble, especially happening as far south as Jamestown. There is one hope left, however, and that is that Haiti will not be able to borrow the warship.

Advises received at the State Department indicate that the war in Central America is practically over. Nicaragua and Honduras have signed articles for a preliminary peace, and the final details will be arranged in a few days.

The Fake Astronomer Abroad

About the latter part of February or the beginning of March a story went the rounds of the dailies concerning Matteucci and the Marchetta's comet that was to come into collision with the earth and burn us all up, the latter part of March. The story later got some rags of respectability when it hitched on to the actual comet, Giacobini's, then to be seen with the telescope in the southern sky. It may be of some interest to know that the canard has been traced to the London Daily Mail whence it was cabled to the New York Sun in which it was published February 22, and denied February 25. It is another example of fake reporting, and in this case the Associated Press has been at some pains to keep its skirts entirely clear. A.
